An Eventful Trip Abroad

Miss Mary Baker has returned from her foreign trip, reaching Johnson Tuesday morning, Sept. 1. Her trip through Italy and Switzerland was ideal in every respect, until reaching Chamourix, France, Aug. 1, where it was learned that on the following day, France was to mobilize her army and all tourists must leave. Nothing but gold would be accepted for railroad fare, but fortunately one of the party carried her money in that form, which enabled them all to return to Switzerland. Every bridge and tunnel on the railroad was guarded by soldiers. All tourists were leaving France, so the crowds on the trains were enormous. An all-day's trip took them to Interlaken in central Switzerland, where they remained for two weeks, but at Milan it was found that the boat was to sail earlier, so after a 19-hour trip Naples was reached, and on the afternoon of the 15th the party boarded the San Giovanni, a boat formerly employed for carrying freight and immigrants.

All Swiss soldiers were mobilizing to protect their borders and the scenes were most stirring. At last it was learned that a boat was to sail from Naples on the 18th. A party of 170 left Interlaken to journey leisurely to Naples, but at Milan it was found that the boat was to sail earlier, so after a 19-hour trip Naples was reached, and on the afternoon of the 15th the party boarded the San Giovanni, a boat formerly employed for carrying freight and immigrants.

The company had ten days to prepare the boat for the 800 tourists who boarded her and the captain and crew did everything possible for the comfort of the passengers, but the quarters were most novel.

After leaving Naples the wireless was not used for a time as they feared a call back to Italy to use the boat as a transport. The captain took a southerly course to avoid storms, making the trip across the Atlantic about 4,400 miles. The English gave permission for passage through the Straits of Gibraltar and the ship was accompanied for a time by an English torpedo boat.

On arrival at New York Aug. 31, a government official came on to the boat to give financial aid to the tourists needing it. The landing pier was decorated with flags and bunting and a great Italian band was on the dock playing national airs, and it was a thankful company of Americans who once more stepped on American soil, a land free from the war-cloud under which they had been so long.

Mrs. William Rushford

Mrs. William Rushford, one of Johnson's well known and respected citizens, died very suddenly Saturday afternoon on her way from North Hyde Park, where she had been to attend a gathering of the W. R. C. ladies, where Johnson Corps had been invited. With Mrs. Irving Bailey and Mrs. Huldah Livermore, Mrs. Rushford was returning with William Leslie's team. The horse was seized with an attack of blind staggers and backed, alarming the ladies, and Mrs. Livermore decided to wait at Edw. W. Jones', Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Rushford proceeding as far as Charles Hayford's, when Mrs. Rushford fell against Mrs. Bailey and only breathed two or three times.

The cause of death was heart failure. Dr. Prentiss was immediately called. The body was taken on the same team to the Rushford home, Mrs. Bailey being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John Stearns. The funeral was held from the Cong'l church at 10:30 on Tuesday morning, with burial at Waterville beside her father, William Carpenter, and her child, Rev. F. W. Hazen, pastor of the church, officiated. Her age was 45 years last August.

Memorial Service

The Rev. E. G. French, a friend of the deceased, spoke a few words and was followed by the Rev. Mr. Bergen of Lyndonville, a former pastor of the Sutton church, and a lifelong friend of the Burnham family. Letters were read from Dr. Thomas of Middlebury College, Dr. Curry of the Curry School of Expression of Boston and others.

After the service the grave was visited, where the Rev. Mr. Harrison offered prayer and flowers were placed thereon. A great profusion of flowers testified to the esteem of townsmen and friends. Those attending from Johnson were Leonard and Lloyd Pearl and Arthur Stearns.

Life is made up not of knowledge only but of love also.—Emerson.

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to do to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads 'round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

It's just business, that's all, to ADVERTISE IN THIS PAPER
